Benson's Low Farm Support Theory Rapped

Missouri Senator Says Idea To Cut Output Is Unsound

SIOUX FALLS, S.D. (AP)—The theory that lower farm price supports will cut production is unsound and Agriculture Department officials know it, Sen. Symington (D-Mo) declared today.

Symington scored Secretary of Agriculture Benson in a speech at the National Corn-Picking Contest.

Benson Thursday was the target of egg-throwers as he restated his appeal for flexible price supports from the same platform.

Symington referred to Benson and "his theoreticians" and said:

"They know that for the 'lower price—lower production' theory to work, there must be freedom and mobility, as specifically stated in the classic textbook examples.

"But out in the real world, out on the farms of America, there is no such mobility, and they know that as well as we do."

"How can a dairy farmer, with a $30,000 investment in a foundation herd, a milking parlor, a Grade A bulk tank system and a silo, switch to some other form of farming?"

ACTUALLY, the Missouri senator asserted, lower prices only increase production because:

"Farmers know that, as prices drop, all they can do is work even harder to produce more than to get the dollars they need."

Benson escaped the barrage of eggs aimed at him Thursday.

The eggs came as he was being introduced by South Dakota Gov. Joe Foss at the State Mechanical Corn-Picking Contest on a nearby farm, a prelude to today's national finals at the same scene.

Benson, whose hat was splattered by a thrown egg as it lay on the speaker's platform, did not mention the incident in his speech.

In later conversation he said nothing like it ever had happened to him before. He called it "un-American."

Maynard Gudahl, a state patrolman, said Maynard Rankly, 21, a farmer from Volga, S.D., admitted he and four others had thrown the eggs.

"We weren't getting any attention. We've written him letters and we figured this was one way of getting his attention," the officer quoted Rankly as saying.

The egg throwers were not held but Foss said he had ordered agents of the state attorney general to press for prosecution.

A titter ran through the crowd, estimated by state police at about 7,000, when the eggs were thrown.

There was only a smattering of applause when Benson finished speaking.

In his talk, Benson said that broader markets and reduced surpluses rather than price props are the answer to increased farm income. He urged greater exports, saying that "you can't sit back and let others take your markets from you, you've got to fight hard for them."

Engineers To Make Final Freeway Plans

COLUMBUS (AP)—Ohio highway chief Charles M. Noble said Thursday that preliminary reports on the 90-mile Cincinnati to Columbus section of the Cincinnati-Conneaut Freeway are satisfactory. He has instructed consulting engineers to proceed with final plans. He said a final decision on the route will not be made until a public hearing is held.

The consulting engineers working on that segment of the freeway between Harrisburg and Route 72 in Clinton County are Elmer Barnett and Associates, Chillicothe.

The firm has proposed three possible routes between those points: one would cross Fayette County near Jeffersonville, nine miles north of Washington C. H., another would cross immediately north of the communities of Bloomingburg and Eber about four miles north of Washington C. H. and the third would skirt the northern edge of Washington C. H.

The Fayette County Highway Committee has urged that the Bloomingburg-Ever route be adopted.

Hoffa Faces New Court Challenge

WASHINGTON (AP)—Attorneys for a rank-and-file Teamsters Union group said they intend to apply for a federal court order later today barring James R. Hoffa from taking office as Teamsters president.

The purpose of the suit is to set aside the convention results, including Hoffa's election, and establish a court master in equity, or caretaker, for the union, pending selection of new delegates and another convention.

The committee subpoenaed the records immediately after Hoffa's election. It is inquiring into charges that delegates had been hand-picked to rig the election for Hoffa, as alleged in a court action which sought unsuccessfully to block the election.

Hoffa has been accused by McClellan and other Senate investigators of misuse of union funds and underworld connections.

In Detroit, Hoffa disputed McClellan's contention that the union constitution had been disregarded.

He said President Beck and the union's Executive Board were charged with interpretation of the constitution. Beck gave his interpretation, Hoffa said, and it was then approved by the Executive Board and the full convention.

AFTER THE committee subpoenaed the convention records, union officials reported the documents had been thrown out by a hotel maid who subsequently died.

Many were salvaged, however, and Joseph Konowe, secretary of the convention Credentials Committee, delivered to the Senate group what he called "substantially all" of the records.

McClellan said the records turned over to the committee "are so incomplete as to be almost useless." He also said that preliminary examination of the records that were furnished "revealed a shocking situation."

Another Week Ending Quietly In Arkansas

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—Emmanuel Central High School marked the end of another school week and the close of the first of its current semester in an atmosphere of outward quiet today.

But armed soldiers around the massive building bore silent witness that the crisis over integration of Negroes and whites still was unresolved.

History-making decisions and developments swirled around Central High during the six school weeks that ended today.

The integration of three Negro boys and six girls at the 2,000-pupil school swelled into an issue that resulted in a show-down clash between federal and state authorities.

Neither President Eisenhower, who sent federal troops to enforce integration at the school, nor Gov. Orval Faubus, who had called out the Arkansas National Guard to prevent integration, was showing any sign of retreat from diametrically opposed stands.

Faubus has declared that only the withdrawal of the nine Negro students will settle the dispute.

Saturday, at least 85 churches in the Little Rock area will hold a special one-hour service to pray for a solution to the crisis.

A number of other Arkansas churches and some outside the state will take part in the Columbus Day service at 11 a. m.

U. S. Skywatch Teams Sight Sputnik Again

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

American sky watchers reported sighting the Russian earth satellite Sputnik, again today as it made three early morning passes over the United States.

The man-made moon, apparently undeterred by a shower of meteorite fragments, neared the end of its first week aloft still circling the earth once every 96.1 minutes.

The Naval Research Laboratory said Sputnik made three high-speed passes over the United States this morning, and will return three times tonight.

The New Haven, Conn., moon-watch team, which first spotted the satellite Thursday, reported that it saw two objects streaking through the sky this morning—presumably Sputnik and another rocket that propelled the moon into its orbit.

Watchers at the astrophysical observatory of the Smithsonian Institution in Cambridge, Mass., also apparently caught a momentary glimpse of the satellite.

In Thursday's news reports, it was stated that Sputnik itself was not sighted, only the third stage of the rocket which carried the satellite aloft.

The proclamation did not say precisely when the Reds would have power to the new "white" government. But Communist leaders and their supporters were already seen leaving the government palace they have held since the bloodless revolution erupted Oct. 1.

A coalition government headed by San Marino Christian Democrats is expected to take over.

THEY FORMED a provisional government, already recognized by the United States, at the start of the upheaval.

The country has been blockaded by Italy for two weeks and this generally forced the Reds to their knees.

The trouble started Sept. 19 when the Communists in government found themselves with a majority in parliament for the first time in 12 years. Facing defeat in election the Reds ordered new elections for Nov. 3. The non-Communists rebelled and formed their provisional government.

Asian Flu Vaccine Supply Here Far from Enough to Meet Demand

"The interest in Asian flu vaccine has far surpassed that in polio vaccine when it was announced," several Washington C. H. pharmacists reported Friday.

"Three or four calls each day from doctors request vaccine," one said, "and we just aren't getting nearly enough."

About eight weeks ago, vaccine manufacturers announced that a major supply would be available by October.

However, manufacturers apparently have not been able to keep the promise.

All local pharmacists said: "We have no stock. Just as soon as we get a major shipment in it is delivered to doctors. We just aren't able to keep any in stock."

According to reports, some doctors are being supplied directly from the manufacturers. "At least one small manufacturer is supplying directly," one pharmacist reported. "Our order to the manufacturer was completely ignored, but one doctor received enough vaccine for 200 shots."

ALL LARGE manufacturers, apparently, are shipping the vaccine through their usual sources, pharmacists said.

Manufacturers are advising drug stores here that from 35 to 40 million shots will have been distributed by November. But so far the supply has just been "too small to do anyone much good," one pharmacist said. "And besides," he added, "the demand has been so great that it has been impossible to meet it."

ATHLETIC games schedules crumbled. Football games were postponed or canceled by scores of high schools, and some colleges.

The infection also struck in factories and industries—even prisons. In the State Reformatory for Males at Hagerstown, Md., 126 prisoners—more than a tenth of the inmates—were down with flu. Some hospitals refused to admit Asian flu cases, due to its highly contagious nature. Doctors and nurses worked overtime.

The Public Health Service reported localized epidemics in areas of Utah, Wyoming, California, Texas, South Carolina and Florida with sporadic occurrences in New Mexico, Oklahoma, Missouri, Indiana, Oregon, South Georgia.

Since identifying Asian flu requires elaborate laboratory procedures, the majority of the cases were not confirmed as being this type. But the scattered analyses showed the Asian disease was widespread.

Although few city or state health departments felt that spread of the ailment had reached epidemic proportions, many reported a "serious outbreak" far surpassing the normal rate of influenza.

Ohio flu cases total 380 so far, compared with 511 for entire 1956. Only 16 cases have been confirmed as Asian Flu, but the state health department says most of others probably are the same type.

Cleveland, Cincinnati and Toledo are having heaviest sieges, but none of epidemic scope. Muskingum College is closed until next Tuesday.

Many public schools were closed. Dances and social affairs were called off.

Flu Zigzags Across Nation; Some Communities Hit Hard

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Flu, like a broken-field runner, zigzagged across the United States today, trampling hard over some communities, dodging others, but generally dealing stiff blows.

Whether it was mostly Asian flu, or combined with other varieties, was uncertain. But either way, a rampage of coughs, aches, fevers and sniffles was on. Vaccine defenses were termed by some too late or too little.

The U. S. Public Health Service said estimates of Asian flu cases alone had passed the million mark, with heaviest occurrence in Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama, Arizona and New York City.

An Associated Press survey showed most other states also have been seriously hit at some points. Persons stricken usually recover in a few days, but at least 15 deaths this month have been attributed to flu complications.

Many public schools were closed. Dances and social affairs were called off.

Pomona Grange Approves List Of Resolutions

Endorses Bricker Amendment, Opposes Open Quail Season

Pomona Grange members put themselves on record as in favor of the Bricker amendment and opposed to open season on quail in two of 11 resolutions passed at a meeting Thursday night.

A resolution supporting proposed constitutional amendment drawn up by Sen. John W. Bricker, limiting the president's treaty-making powers was approved by the group.

Another resolution stated the group's position as favoring "no open season on quail." The quail season consideration was "discussed at great length" among grangers for several weeks, one member said.

OTHER RESOLUTIONS recommended that no license be required for farm tractors on highways; that closer controls be put on Johnson grass and the Canadian thistle; and that the State Grange make every effort to restore a law requiring a 65 per cent vote of the electorate for passage of a bond issue.

Two Grange resolutions were aimed at cutting the U. S. Department of Agriculture budget. One of them favored distribution of farm surpluses to needy areas at home and abroad, with the expense being shared by the Agriculture Department and the State Department.

The other urged that expenses of reciprocal trade agreements whereby the United States accepts agricultural products from abroad should be charged to the State Department, not the Agriculture Department.

Resolutions were drawn up by Pomona's resolutions committee. They will be forwarded to the Ohio State Grange, as a reflection of the opinions of the Fayette County unit.

Fifth degree work was given at the meeting to Mrs. Leora Rowan of the Good Hope Grange by Nathaniel Tway.

AN OFFICERS' conference for Granges throughout the area, to be held in Clarksville Dec. 7 was announced.

Negro Says Whites Too Passive, Silent

ZANESVILLE (P) — Millions of white people who believe in racial equality fail to speak out for the Negro because of their fear of white supremacists, says a prominent Negro leader.

N. B. Allen, founder and executive secretary of the Frontiers of America, told the Ohio annual conference of the African Methodist Episcopal Church here Thursday "there are too many passive, silent, non-decisive persons who say or do nothing when the very vital of our American life are being destroyed by discrimination."

Wood Duck Nest Boxes and Rabbit Traps To Be Made

The clincher was put on a two-ply wildlife conservation project by the Fayette County Fish and Game Assn. at its meeting Thursday night in the lodge near Buena Vista.

The organization of sportsmen agreed to build 25 nesting boxes for w.c.d. ducks and 25 box traps for rabbits. They are to gather at the lodge on Tuesday evenings to make both the nesting boxes and traps each week until all are completed.

During the discussion, it was brought out that there are more of the colorful little wood ducks around Fayette County than most people think and that they association should encourage their increase by providing nesting boxes.

Since the wood ducks nest in trees—most ducks next on the ground—the sportsmen felt that nesting boxes will encourage them to make their homes here. The boxes, which will have entrance holes about 4 inches in diameter, will be fastened to trees along the banks of streams or put on stakes in the streams.

RABBIT TRAPS will be made available to residents of the city for catching rabbits, alive and unharmed. The trapped rabbits will be taken to the country and freed.

The decision to make the rabbit traps came as a result of complaints that rabbits in the city have been making inroads on flowers and backyard gardens. It also was pointed out that if they become a nuisance around homes on farms and in villages they can be trapped there are taken to the fields and woods.

Conservation Officer Dave Krupla was delegated to supervise the rabbit trapping. A call to any member of the association, it was said, will bring a trap to the home, whether it is in town or in the country.

The association also arranged at its Thursday night meeting to sponsor pheasant tail feather and raccoon contests in which prizes will be given for the longest tail feathers during the pheasant season and the biggest raccoon taken by a hunter.

THE ASSOCIATION moved to put a hunter safety program into effect within the next week. Krupla who is heading the program, met with all the members who have passed the hunting safety course to lay plans for teaching others the proper use of firearms in the field.

The members were told that shells and clay target will be available for trap shooting every Sunday. The association has cleaned a range on its tract east of the lodge.

After the business meeting, which was longer than usual, Krupla showed movies of "The White Tail Buck" and "How To Fish."

Hot dogs and coffee were served while the sportsmen got in practice for the "tall story" contest that will take the place of the movies at the next meeting.

Farm Hand Is Held For Slaying Girl, 5

JUAREZ, Mexico (P) — Joe Franco, 24, a farm hand, was held in jail today for the slaying of 5-year-old Sandra Joe Lucero at Roswell, N. M.

Police Inspector Domingo Holguin said Franco admitted he ravished the little girl and stabbed her three times in the heart with a screw driver.

"I don't know why," Franco said, but added that he had been smoking marijuana.

Franco's capture ended a widespread manhunt by police in both Mexico and the United States. Two Juarez officers found him Thursday at an uncle's farm near Torreon, Mexico, 480 miles southeast of El Paso, Tex.

COLUMBUS (P) — Bruce L. Finney of Martins Ferry, a field agent for the Ohio Department of Liquor Control, has been ordered removed from his job for insubordination and neglect of duty.

As the weather turns colder day by day, everybody at WHS gives a vote of thanks to the company installing the new boilers for being able to get one of them hooked up giving the building 'some much-needed heat.'

THE LIBRARY CLUB has postponed its meeting until Oct. 16 in order to give all members a chance to read something by or about A. J. Cronin. The club will meet during the noon hour and discuss the author, his life and his writings.

THE NATIONAL HONOR SOCIETY of WHS held a meeting Tuesday morning and elected the following officers to lead them through the school year: President, Earl Palmer; vice president, John Rhoad; secretary, Joyce Lutz; and treasurer, Roger McLean.

The purpose of NHS is to recognize outstanding achievement by students, not only in scholarship, but also in the fields of character, leadership, and service.

NHS is just what the name implies, an honorary society. The group is not socially active because it is the feeling of both Mr. Winter, the advisor, and the members of the club that if you have been chosen for the club you must already be active in both school and social life and do not need more activities. However, NHS does sponsor a sock-hop once a year to raise money to cover the expenses of inducting new members each spring.

There are, at present, twelve members of this club, and three more will be inducted from the senior class as well as twelve from the junior class. To be made a member of this society is one of the greatest honors that can befall a high school student, and many try to reach the standards required for admission. Not all of them make the grade, but even for those who don't, it has raised their grade level and given them a better education because of their increased efforts. For those who are not elected during their junior year, there is the challenge of trying for election during their senior year.

So, for all the students reading this, just think; with a little effort and a little better attitude, it might be your name that they call next spring. Sound good? Then do something about it today, and you'll never regret it.

THE FUTURE TEACHERS CLUB held a meeting Friday morning and, with several members of the Library Club in attendance, were treated to a showing of slides made by the Rev. Sanford Lindsay of Trinity Episcopal Church, London, while he was on a tour of Europe and the Holy Land. Mr. Lindsay showed and narrated the program himself.

THE TOP five songs of the week at WHS are:

(1) "Gonna Buy You a Rainbow"; (2) "Honeycomb"; (3) "That'll Be the Day"; (4) "Tammey"; (5) "Jailhouse Rock".

THE SLATE of class officers for the new school year follows:

Freshmen—Josianne Glitt, president; Brenda Armstrong, vice president; Cathy Mulvihill, secretary-treasurer.

Eighth Grade—Bob Helfrich.

Ohio School Bond Issues On Decline

November Ballot Due To Carry 25 Per Cent Less Than in 1956

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—About 25 per cent fewer school bond issues will confront Ohio voters at the polls Nov. 5 than were on 1956 ballots, but the number of special operating levies is only slightly lower.

A survey at the Bureau of Educational Research and Service at Ohio State University shows building bond issues proposed this year number 157. They total slightly more than 114½ million dollars.

Last year, voters in 218 districts approved bond issues for 137½ million dollars' worth of buildings.

Voters last year approved 614 special school operating levies and 583 were up for approval or rejection this year.

Some of this year's school issues already have been decided in special elections. Approved bond issues in 1957 total 68,131,600—72,286,000 in local districts, 71,850,000 in city districts and 59,950,000 in exempted village districts.

There have been some notable defeats for bond issues. Cleveland Heights voters turned down a $1½ million issue May 21; Bexley, a Columbus suburb, rejected two issues totaling $1,230,000 Sept. 27; Wickliffe, a Cleveland suburb, voted down a $965,000 issue June 25; Southwestern District in Franklin County said "no" to a $1,600,000 issue Aug. 6, and Tuscarawas Valley District in the county of the featuring ministers from neighboring Churches of God, will begin Nov. 3.

Besides the worship service, other events Sunday include 9:30 a.m. Sunday School, and a 7:30 p.m. Gospel hour, featuring music from the new Church of God Hymnal.

Events during the week include the service at Green Acres Wednesday and an hour of prayer at the Legion hall at 7:30 p.m. Thursday.

THE JUNIOR HIGH STUDENT COUNCIL is now in full swing with 10 representatives both class presidents and the president of the council in attendance at the meetings.

Officers of this organization are President, Margie Hurtt; vice president, Linda Lucas; secretary, Marilyn Willis; and treasurer, Mary Orthomeyer.

The main project of the Student Council now is the sale of magazine subscriptions to raise money for the class treasuries. To date, over $400 worth of subscriptions have been sold. Although the activities of the Council are somewhat limited, Mr. Donald Moore, the advisor, feels that this is a fine opportunity for young students to learn self-government.

The Sock-Hop in the gym after the game will be sponsored by the Junior Class.

New Local Church To Hold First Public Service

First public worship service of the year-old Northside Church of God will be held at 10:30 a.m. Sunday on the second floor of American Legion hall, 212 N. Fayette St., the Rev. L. J. Houck, pastor of the church, announced.

The church, which Mr. Houck organized when he came here from Xenia about a year ago, has been holding services in private homes during the organization period, the minister pointed out.

Affiliated with the nation wide Church of God, the church has a constituency of about 20. It holds midweek services at 7:30 p.m. each Wednesday in the Green Acres Rest Home, Stafford Rd.

The church is contemplating construction of a permanent home "in the future," but regular services in Legion hall will continue "indefinitely," Mr. Houck said.

Jury Studying State Senator Is Deadlocked

IRONTON (AP)—A $26,000 damage suit trial involving State Sen. Oakley C. Collins ended in a hung jury Thursday.

Collins was sued for that amount in a civil action by Gerry Lee Thompson, 22, Wheelersburg.

Testimony during the one day trial indicated that Thompson was driving his auto around the ramps of a drive-in theater at Wheelersburg owned by Collins. When Collins asked him to stop, the two men had an argument. Thompson claimed Collins slapped him, knocking him to the ground.

same name rejected a $930,000 suit May 7.

Both the Wickliffe and Tuscarawas Valley proposals are being resubmitted at the November election.

Already this year, six special levies have been approved in special elections to meet emergency situations. Nine have been defeated on their first trip to the pools, but seven are on the ballot again next month.

Average millage asked in city districts is 4.41. In exempted village districts it is 4.19 and in local districts 4.41.

Levies are proposed in 66 of the state's 138 city districts, 34 of the 77 exempted village districts and in 48 local districts in 84 counties.

Only 25 of the 66 city levies are straight renewals of existing levies while 23 others are combinations of renewals and new requests; the others represent entirely new levies.

This year's school bond issue proposals are broken down this way between classes of districts: City, 27 issues for slightly more than 48 million dollars; exempted villages, 14 for slightly more than 6½ million and local districts, 14 for nearly 60 million.

The record of bond issue elections held already this year appears to indicate some voter resistance to spending money at this time for school gymnasiums and auditoriums and other facilities considered by some to be non-essential.

In only a few instances, however, have voters turned thumbs down on proposals to build needed classrooms. And in many of these cases the voters are being asked to reconsider.

County Grange Installation Is Monday Night

PICKAWAY COUNTY Team To Conduct It

Plans for Monday night's mass installation ceremony for all the officers of the Pomona Grange, the six subordinate Granges and two juvenile Granges in Fayette County have been completed except, possibly, for the usual last-minute details, County Deputy Roscoe Whiteside said.

The installation will be held at 8 p.m. in Marshall Grange Hall in Jeffersonville.

Already this year, six special levies have been approved in special elections to meet emergency situations. Nine have been defeated on their first trip to the pools, but seven are on the ballot again next month.

In only a few instances, however, have voters turned thumbs down on proposals to build needed classrooms. And in many of these cases the voters are being asked to reconsider.

THIS INSTALLATION will be held at an open meeting, a meeting to which anyone is welcome, Deputy Whiteside emphasized.

Homer Carr, master of Marshall Grange, will preside, but Deputy Whiteside and Mrs. Whiteside, the juvenile deputy matron, will have prominent roles in the ceremonies.

Following the installation, Deputy Whiteside said, there probably will be short talks by some of the new and retiring officers.

One of the highlights of the evening will be the installation of Ralph Nisley as master of Selden Grange

Some of this year's school issues already have been decided in special elections. Approved bond issues in 1957 total 68,131,000—7,286,000 in local districts, 71,850,000 in city districts and $995,000 in exempted village districts.

There have been some notable defeats for bond issues. Cleveland Heights voters turned down a 6 1/2 million issue May 21; Bexley, a Columbus suburb, rejected two issues totaling $1,230,000 Sept. 27; Wickliffe, a Cleveland suburb, voted down a $965,000 issue June 25; Southwestern District in Franklin County said "no" to a $1,600,000 issue Aug. 6, and Tuscarawas Valley District in the county of the featuring ministers from neighboring Churches of God, will begin Nov. 3.

Besides the worship service, other events Sunday include 9:30 a.m. Sunday School, and a 7:30 p.m. Gospel hour, featuring music from the new Church of God Hymnal.

Events during the week include the service at Green Acres Wednesday and an hour of prayer at the Legion hall at 7:30 p.m. Thursday.

The record of bond issue elections held already this year appears to indicate some voter resistance to spending money at this time for school gymnasiums and auditoriums and other facilities considered by some to be non-essential.

In only a few instances, however, have voters turned thumbs down on proposals to build needed classrooms. And in many of these cases the voters are being asked to reconsider.

The main project of the Student Council now is the sale of magazine subscriptions to raise money for the class treasuries. To date, over $400 worth of subscriptions have been sold. Although the activities of the Council are somewhat limited, Mr. Donald Moore, the advisor, feels that this is a fine opportunity for young students to learn self-government.

The Sock-Hop in the gym after the game will be sponsored by the Junior Class.

New Local Church To Hold First Public Service

First public worship service of the year-old Northside Church of God will be held at 10:30 a.m. Sunday on the second floor of American Legion hall, 212 N. Fayette St., the Rev. L. J. Houck, pastor of the church, announced.

The church, which Mr. Houck organized when he came here from Kenya about a year ago, has been holding services in private homes during the organization period, the minister pointed out.

Affiliated with the nation wide Church of God, the church has a constituency of about 20. It holds midweek services at 7:30 p.m. each Wednesday in the Green Acres Rest Home, Stafford Rd.

The church is contemplating construction of a permanent home "in the future," but regular services in Legion hall will continue "indefinitely," Mr. Houck said.

Undue Excitement and Fear over Satellite

Even here in Fayette County where most residents are inclined to be calm, unexcitable and conservative regarding national and worldwide happenings, there has been an unusual amount of comment and excitement about the Russian earth satellite recently launched.

Due to the great amount of publicity about Communism and Russian alleged intentions to create war through aggression, most people seem to have been led into a buildup of apprehension tending toward fear regarding every move that Russia makes.

The propaganda line now heard about the new Russian earth satellite apparently has affected many people. It has caused criticism of American officials and scientists because America was not the first to make such a launching in this International Geophysical Year.

Judging by comments of Russian scientists attending the IGY in this country, we gather the clue as to how the Soviet Union is able to excel in certain specialized fields despite her numerous drawbacks — scientific, technical, economic. It is able to do so exactly because it does specialize.

As one prominent Ohio newspaper has stated, "Russia has the first earth satellite—but only imperfect means of keeping tabs on it. Its progress in rocketry is at least equal to, and possibly somewhat in advance of, our own, but in supplementary and collateral equipment the United States is evidently well ahead. It will do no harm to bear in mind the Soviet record in nuclear fission, where superhuman striving has kept it almost abreast the United States in certain key developments but at the expense of falling far behind in refinements, adaptations, and applications of nuclear fission which will doubtless prove quite as essential in the long run.

"All this is offered not as consolation to worried Americans — there is nothing particularly reassuring about the Russian faculty for concentrating on major projects to the exclusion of minor or subsidiary ones—but as explanation for the apparent ascendancy of Soviet science in areas wherein Americans had more or less convinced themselves of their own supremacy. The ascendancy, such as it is, cannot be gainsaid; but it needs analysis.

"It is bought at a price Americans are not willing to pay in 'peacetime'—namely, retention of a wartime economy. Russians live in a perpetual austerity regime; they are worse off now than they were before the War, and a good deal worse off than they were before the Red revolution of 1917. It is all very well to say that maybe Americans ought to buckle down to the socialist or at any rate Statist austerities of a war era: the other side of the picture is that the USSR is undergoing severe and recurrent political crisis because Russians themselves are coming more and more to chafe under the hardships entailed. Whether the first successful test of an earth satellite is worth 40 years of deepening material deprivation and human desolation is something the Russian people will have to decide for themselves.

"Meanwhile if such 'Soviet triumphs' are dearly bought, they are also rather illusory. Early in the Korean War much was made of the fact that the Reds had a superior jet fighter; later in that war nothing much was made of the fact that Americans had several jet fighters superior to any Soviet model.

The same story seems to be repeating itself in connection with multi-stage rockets and satellite launchings, without reference to the fact that Soviet technology simply cannot hope to match U. S. technology, whatever temporary leads it may be able to achieve under forced draft.

"The West—the United States in particular—can be expected on the strength of past performance to do far better at far less ultimate cost.

"The question of the propaganda value of Russia's satellite is secondary to these considerations."

Are You Slave to Pill Bottle?

NEW YORK (AP)—America, the richest country on earth, is also the land of the half-well.

It has millions of people who dwell in twilight health — they aren't sick enough to go to a hospital and they aren't well enough to feel good.

They are chronically fatigued and feel sure there must be something seriously wrong with them. But in a majority of cases the only thing wrong with them is themselves, and their bad living habits which—let's face it—would kill an airdale or break down a buffalo.

So what do they do? They take a pill . . . another pill . . . and still another pill. Pills, capsules, tablets—every year they spew out of the machines and down the gullets of half-ailing Americans by the millions and billions. And to what effect? A remarkably small one, many honest doctors would be the first to agree.

The pill-taking habit, if overdone, is in its way as harmful as excessive smoking or drinking. The reason: it lulls people into a false sense of well-being, prevents them from making the changes in their living habits that alone can restore them to real health.

I am speaking, of course, not of pills prescribed for genuine organic ailments, but pills for "that tired feeling".

Recently a friend of mine who was taking 13 pills a day—thyroid pills, vitamin pills, pep pills, tranquilizer pills and a pill to make his body shed fluids faster. He became extremely nervous and decided he was "over-medicated."

"I went to another doctor, a general practitioner too busy to give sympathy," he said, "and was told that all I needed was to take off some weight and live as my grandfather had—simply."

"So I threw away all my pill bottles. I went on a diet, cut down on my crinkling, got more sleep and started walking home from work every night. I feel better now than I have for 20 years."

Pills are in too many cases merely a kind of crutch, a form of bottled psychiatry which can often hurt more than help.

Here is the prescription that will put more zing into living for America's jittery pill prisoners than all the wonder drugs ever invented:

1. Quit feeling sorry for yourself. Self-pity will make even a whale sick.

2. Get an hour more sleep every night.

3. Eat only the foods you tell your kids are good for them.

4. Spend at least half an hour a day in some kind of moderate exercise—even if it consists only of patting yourself on the back.

5. Never take a pill except when you have a nosebleed. The pill won't help the nosebleed, but on the other hand do most of the pills yougulp now do any more to make you really healthy?

So, you come before a judge in a contempt matter and your life, liberty and pursuit of happiness depend upon how his adrenal and thyroid glands are working that particular moment. Or maybe, he has diabetes or hyperinsulinism or any of a dozen old or new diseases. Or maybe, he feels very good that morning because his daughter gave birth to his first grandson which often makes a man particularly mellow, although he in no way is directly responsible for the event. So, the contempt is quashed or the newspaperman gets 30 days for refusing to tell who told him that so-and-so, and that is a good way to put it, got a rake-off on the newly purchased snowplows, the same having been proved by photographs of canceled checks, etc.

What we really need is some new definition of contempt. I know several judges well and personally for whose judgment in most matters I must have contempt, although in several instances when I criticized them, I was told by lawyers that they were extraordinarily competent men in their field, which just goes to show that a shoemaker should not try to make spaghetti.

On that, I should like to ask him a question, namely:

Would he expect an all-Negro jury to be impartial? The likelihood is that such a jury would consist of Democrats and Republicans, of honest men and corruptible men, of those who favor their race against all comers and those who try to make a deal for their own advancement, which is equally true a man of most human beings. Certainly were I a woman who has slaughtered a lover, I would not want an all-female jury; they might sympathize with the lover.

Now, let us go to question No.

3: "Have those Southerners who shout the loudest about jury trial in contempt case done anything to bring such a thing throughout their own state laws? If a man does not do something where he can, can we trust his sincerity when he asks us to do it somewhere else?"

I am not sure what I believe about contempt cases. I have seen judges act like cantankerous idiots in contempt cases, particularly when a newspaper man declines to betray a confidence.

After all, judges are just plain, ordinary human beings, the same as you and I and have even tempers or hard tempers, petulance, and a tough time with their

the testimony as produced in court under the rules of evidence.

Over half a century of observation, I cannot say which is more truthful, the newswriters stories or the evidence which is based on law.

This also answers Rev. Mr. Beardslee's second question which is:

"Is Liberty protected by mere jury trial, or must that jury be impartial? Our constitution calls 'impartial' to be of any use?"

The jury system is an old one in Anglo-Saxon tradition and is designed to protect an individual from arbitrary and whimsical decisions by a corrupt or cantankerous judge or other official. When a man is tried in open court, before his peers—which originally meant his equals in rank—he has a better chance for the protection of his rights under the law than if he were tried in secret by an officer of the king's court who might have been instructed to have him killed.

The word, impartial, which Rev. Mr. Beardslee emphasizes, can only have meaning if the jurors are strangers to the person and the issues of the case and do not care one way or the other whether the fellow hangs. Nowadays there is less impartiality than in the time of King John who gave Magna Carta to the English, because most people read newspapers and listen to commentators and their heads are filled with advance information which may be different from the testimony as produced in court under the rules of evidence.

Now, let us go to question No.

5. Stay away from competitive sports. You are very apt to overextend yourself when you're competing with someone. However, mild exercise, like walking, generally is good for a person.

6. Avoid excessive smoking and drinking. Some doctors advise victims of high blood pressure to exclude tobacco and alcohol entirely. Your doctor is the best judge in your particular case. Do what he tells you.

For the Soviet party boss sounds on the verge of a terrible tantrum in his latest outburst. And, however much U. S. officials may try to downgrade the Russians' rocket-launched satellite, there is no doubt Khrushchev has the weapons to start World War III at any moment.

What the Soviet leader has done, in an interview with a New York Times representative, is to announce a Khrushchev doctrine to counter the Eisenhower Doctrine on the Middle East. But with this difference:

The United States, well knowing the risks, went on record at the last session of Congress as being willing to help any Middle East country which might be threatened with outside (meaning, for the most part, Communist) aggression.

"If war breaks out," Khrushchev says, "we are near Turkey and you are not. When the guns begin to fire, the rockets will be flying and then it will be too late to think about it."

The longer Khrushchev talks, the more incredible he gets. He says at one point that Secretary of State Dulles talks a lot about God but doesn't behave like a Christian. Some of Dulles' critics in this country might not find that too hard to swallow. But with this next breath Khrushchev says:

"We Communists, as atheists, are guided by the most humane considerations in relations between human beings. We seek to do all that is best for people. A Communist is happy when he seeks to achieve happiness for all peoples."

How many millions have suffered and died under the Communist "happiness" program?

It is this mishmash which could be dismissed as only the ramblings of a loudmouth, the world would be better off.

What can you do about a man like Khrushchev, besides build more missile-launchers in the right place?

One thing might be to tell the world exactly what role this country has been playing in the Middle East, and to document it in every possible way. This is assuming that our role has been honorable and that we have nothing to be ashamed of. We could make our case by matching Khrushchev's frankness—but not, as Eisenhower would be the first to say, his note of near-hysteria.

PLATES USED in test of a new Westinghouse ultraviolet lamp said to be a "barrier of death to bacteria, virus and molds" are held by Dr. Rudolph Nagy in Bloomfield, N. J. Tests reportedly show the lamp kills 80 per cent of bacteria and virus in the air. Plate at left, containing almost no bacteria, was exposed to contaminated air which passed through a duct containing the lamp. Plate at right was exposed to contaminated air without use of the lamp. "Let's take it to the lab and see if it's a mushroom or a toadstool."

"Let's drive this into a parking lot and see if we can dent any fenders."

U. S. Business
May Trim Own
Prop in 1958Present Investment
In Self Said To Be
$100 Million a Day

By SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK (AP)—A 100 million dollar a day prop to business may get a little shaky next year. This is the amount business itself has been putting back into the economy each day of this year on average in its spending for plant and equipment.

Many company executives are saying today they won't spend at that rate in 1958.

Contract awards for factory construction are declining. Corporate directors are appropriating far less money now for new capital spending than they were a year ago. These two trends won't show up in actual spending volume until some time in 1958.

Survey of intentions show an increasing number of companies expecting to trim such spending next year. One just made by the Research Institute of America indicates the spending next year could drop seven billion dollars below this year's record 37 billion dollars. Other surveys look for only a two billion dollar drop in annual rate in the early months of 1958.

Reasons given: uncertainty over the business outlook; the capacity to produce already in excess of demand for the time being; and the completion of big programs started some time back.

A survey by the Department of Commerce and the Securities and
expansion boom leveling off now and dropping slightly by the end of the year.

The expected total this year of
3. billion dollars would be 6.5 per cent over the 35 billion spent last year, which was a whopping 22.5 per cent over spending in 1955.
Spending less this year than last were auto, textile and stone, clay and glass product companies.

Music of the United Nations Program Given by Cecilians

The October meeting of the Cecilians was held at the home of Mrs. M. Grove Davis of the Greenfield Rd. Wednesday night.

The business meeting was presided over by the club president, Mrs. Paul S. Craig. A report of the Junior Music Clubs was given and the middlewest district meeting to be held in Springfield on Oct. 16 was announced. Mrs. Craig discussed the coming programs for the year before introducing Mrs. Coyt Stookey, program chairman.

An entertaining program of "Music of the United Nations" was presented by a woman's sextet which included Mrs. Stookey and Mrs. Fred Enslen, first sopranos; Mrs. Weldon Kaufman and Miss Clara Belle Robinson, second sopranos; Mrs. Mary Gillespie and Mrs. G. B. Vance, altos and Miss Margaret Gibson, piano accompanist.

Group singing of "The Star Spangled Banner," opened the program. It was followed with "Love's Old Sweet Song," an English tune sung by the sextet.

Representing Scotland in music, the sextet sang the Scotch Air, "Comin' thro' the Rye."

"La Marseillaise," the French national anthem was played by Miss Gibson as a piano solo. Mrs. Stookey then sang the familiar Irish song, "Danny Boy".

Sawyer's arrangement of the Swiss song, "The Alpine Rose," was sung by the sextet. This was followed by a song from the East Indies, "The Shepherds' Song."

A vocal solo, "I Love Thee," sung by Mrs. Fred Enslen, represented music of Germany.

"Finlandia" from Finland was sung by the sextet and the program closed with "Now is the Hour," the Maori farewell song, which is credited to New Zealand.

Preceding each number, Mrs. Stookey spoke briefly of the history of the selection and the composers, relating how the different types and moods of music chosen reflected the thoughts and emotions of the composers, and in some cases national events.

During the social hour a delicious dessert course was served by the hostesses for the evening, Mrs. Otis Core, Mrs. Edwin Buck, Mrs. Ira Barchet and Mrs. Virgil Dwyer.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. McGinnis and co-hostess, Miss June Swartz.

The next meeting of the club will be held Nov. 13 at the home of Mrs. Hugh Smith, 208 E. Paint St.

Before and After in Little Rock

What's Ahead for School Integration in Deep South?

Editor's Note: Following is the 'at a series of five articles surveying conditions in strife-torn Little Rock, Ark.'

By REILMAN MORIN
LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—What now for Little Rock?

What now for integration elsewhere in the South?

It may well be that the whole complexion of that great social struggle has been changed by President Eisenhower and Gov. Orval Faubus.

The thunderous September events in the city showed the breadth and depth of the feeling against integration. Most people applauded Faubus for using the Arkansas National Guard to keep Negroes out of Central High School.

Then came the riots and federal troops.

Prior to that violence, most people thought of the problem primarily in terms of integration versus segregation. They knew, of course, that the Supreme Court had declared segregation unconstitutional.

But they did not think of it as a question of obeying or defying the court's order, of complying with the law or flouting it.

The road from Capitol Hill in Washington to the school down the block seemed a very long one. Few people in Little Rock expected to be confronted so soon with the hard alternative of accepting integration or challenging the U.S. government.

Moreover, a precedent has been set. Violence may be answered, again and again, by the arrival of federal troops. Short of civil war, what resistance is left? What could it accomplish?

Thus Little Rock has clarified the issue, laid it squarely in the lap of every parent with a child in a segregated school.

For this reason, integrationists in Little Rock and elsewhere contend that Faubus and the rioters inadvertently dealt segregation a mortal blow. They think he has lopped years off the revolutionary process.

They expect to see a stronger civil rights bill enacted in Congress next year. They believe the federal courts will be less likely to permit delays in integration, and that the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People will become more militant, demanding more action sooner.

As for Faubus, the question seems to be: How does he get out of this impasse without surrender and loss of face?

On the morning he left for Newport, R.I., to meet with President Eisenhower, he seemed supremely confident of his position. He told this reporter, "I'm on the ground. I'm in control. It's up to them to make the next move."

Neither the federal court injunction against him Sept. 20, the riots Sept. 23, nor the arrival of federal troops Sept. 24 seemed to and Faubus both issued statements giving the gist of it.

Only a few hours later, having read Faubus' version of the understanding, the White House said the deal was off. Some of the phraseology in the governor's statement was unacceptable.

At a news conference the next day, Faubus did not look so confident. Several times, he showed through his usual calm as he answered questions. "What do they want to do, write my statement for me?" he asked, raising his voice. He did not hesitate to accuse the White House of "double talk."

Meanwhile, Central High School is open. The nine Negro students are going to classes under guard. Attendance rose daily during the first week.

Judging from the attendance figures, it appears that between 15 and 20 per cent of the parents who have children enrolled at Central High are determined to keep them out.

Big Ten Grid Race Down To Brass Tacks Saturday

CHICAGO (AP) — The Big Ten football race gets down to brass tacks Saturday with Michigan State and Michigan heading a card of five conference games.

Michigan State's Spartans are favored by one touchdown to knock off the Wolverines at Ann Arbor and the winner of this contest will become a definite favorite to win the title and the trip to the Rose Bowl.

Aside from the big Michigan rivalry—which is becoming one of the best in the nation—Illinois will be at Ohio State; Iowa goes to Indiana; Minnesota will be at Northwestern and Wisconsin will be at Purdue.

In other contests involving Midwest teams, Notre Dame will meet Army at Philadelphia and Holy Cross battles Marquette at Milwaukee, the nation's newly crowned baseball capital.

The Illinois-Ohio State game will be regionally televised and the Buckeyes are rated a touchdown favorite over the Illini. Both teams have split even in two non-conference games.

Iowa's defending champions shouldn't have any trouble against winless Indiana. The Hawkeyes, favored by nearly three touchdowns, will be out to prove they're over the flu attack and will try to improve upon their national ratings.

Minnesota, out to avenge a 0-0 tie played last year, will be at Northwestern where the winless Wildcats again have sharpened their claws. Minnesota has several key injuries but the Gophers remain a 10-point favorite over the sophomore loaded Wildcats.

Wisconsin, winner of its first two games by topsided scores, will be given a thorough test at Purdue. The game is rated even despite the fact that Wisconsin's defense hasn't been tested.

If the Badgers can contain the Boilermakers, they could very well upset pre season prognosticators who picked Wisconsin to finish deep in the second division.

Notre Dame apparently has overcome its attack of flu but the Irish — unscathed upon in two games—are apt to miss speedy Aubrey Lewis. Lewis, a halfback, will not make the trip East because of an ankle injury.

MIDDLETON (AP) — Roy S. Riegel, 54, a harness race driver, and his wife Delilah, 51, of near Greenville were killed Thursday night in an automobile accident on Ohio 122 near Gratiot.

World Champion Milwaukee Finds Miracle Complete

NEW YORK (AP) — Milwaukee's miracle is now complete. The miracle man is Fred Haney with Lew Burdette his magic wand.

Just five years after the franchise shift from Boston, the Braves rose from a frustrated, badly disorganized seventh-place team to a world championship outfit with a bright future.

Make no mistake about it. This was a standout team that came from behind repeatedly and overcame crippling handicaps to dethrone a good New York Yankee team in seven sizzling World Series games. This was a young team too. The starting Braves' nine that shut out the Yankees 5-0 Thursday behind the remarkable seven-hit pitching of Burdette averaged 26.4 years to 31.4 for the American League champions.

The confidence gained in defeating the Yankees, especially in their own back yard, is immeasurable. The Braves always had the horses. What they lacked was experience and confidence. They have both now.

In addition, the Braves are a highly efficient organization. They have one of the strongest minor league farm systems and own some of the outstanding young players in the country. No wonder Frank Lane, general manager of the runner-up St. Louis Cardinals, remarked ruefully Thursday:

"This was the year to beat the Braves. Next year I'm afraid they'll be unstoppable."

It is not difficult to view the Braves as a championship team for years to come.

How Burdette fared in the final game, and in the entire series, for that matter, is now one of the more glorious pages in World Series history.

The 30-year-old right-hander from Nitro, W.Va., who now makes his home in Sarasota, Fla., not only became the first starter since Cleveland's Stan Coveleski to win three games in one series, but he also became the first hurler in 32 years to turn in two shutouts. The last one? Christy Mathewson, who blanked the Philadelphia Athletics three times in 1905.

Cold figures don't tell half the story of Burdette's truly remarkable pitching performance. The tall, sinewy right-hander walked only one batter — and that was intentional. He was rarely behind the hitters as only four Yankees reached the three-ball count. Not until two out in the ninth inning did a Yankee runner reach third. With the exception of Hank Bauer's leadoff double, no extra-base hit was made off him.

Burdette wound up with 24 consecutive scoreless innings against the American League champs. All this with only two days rest. No wonder his agent, Frank Scott, disclosed today that the rubber-armed redhead, whose 1957 salary was only $15,000, stands to earn around $20,000 in personal appearances and endorsements during the coming winter.

Burdette received magnificent fielding support from his teammates, especially Eddie Mathews at third base. He received timely hitting support from Hank Aaron, Bob Hazle, Del Crandall and Mathews.

Mathews, a batting bust in the first three games, delivered the key hit—a third-inning double to right off starter and loser Don Larsen which drove in the first two Milwaukee runs.

Aaron, hit safely in every game, drove in a run Thursday and wound up leading all hitters on both teams with .393.

Hazle started the crushing four-run rally in the third with a hit, his first of the series. Crandall unlimbered the coup de grace with a home run into the left field seats.

It was the staunch Braves' defense, however, that surprised the Yankees the most. The scouting reports had led them to believe that the Braves were a slow clumsy, lack-luster outfit in the field, devoid of fire and imagination. The Braves proved they were anything but that.

Mathews played a spectacular third base from start to finish. Logan's short-fielding was not as sensational but equally effective.

Covington proved the defensive surprise of the series. Saddled with a good-hit, no-field reputation, the young left fielder left the Yankees gasping with two glittering catches and a tremendous throw that cut off at least four runs.

Crandall was the rock of Gibraltar behind the plate and his strong throwing arm mowed down all three would-be Yankee base stealers.

Frank Torre, a fancy dan around first base, saved his in-

ACTION—FAST AND FURIOUS—IN FINAL SERIES GAME—Bob Hazle of the Milwaukee Braves is safe at second on a dramatic slide in the hectic third inning of the final World Series game in New York's Yankee Stadium. Jerry Coleman, Yankees' second baseman, tumbles through the air to grab Tony Kubek's bad throw on Johnny Logan's grounder. Hazle went on to score the first, and what proved to be the decisive run of the game on Eddie Mathews' double.

Gala Welcome Handed Braves By Hometown

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The Braves brought the world championship of baseball home Thursday night.

"I thought," said one hero, "whom even five years in the home of the Braves had left unprepared to face 750,000 roaring voices, 'that you had to die in battle to get this kind of a welcome.'

But Valhalla was never like this.

Said homecoming chairman Ben Barkin, "I hate to think what would have happened if we'd had a chance to really plan this celebration."

This is what happened: Milwaukee, which holds within its metropolitan area about a million souls, turned out most of them early Thursday night, and kept them out late. The downtown area — scheduled to see a parade of the world champions after their arrival — began to clog with humanity in midafternoon.

By the time the Braves' airplane touched down at 7:30 p.m. there were 250,000 people in an area roughly two blocks wide and two miles long along Wisconsin Avenue. Not a wheel turned in this area for hours.

Meanwhile, at the airport, 10,000 jammed the terminals, piers, decks and roof and another 10,000 swarmed out over the field. When the door of the chartered airliner opened and Manager Fred Haney appeared, what little in the way of formal ceremonies had been prepared were swamped along with the television crews and cameramen.

Unfurled at the airport were the first of the banners which repeated the same message for miles: "Welcome back to Bushville."

This term of opprobrium — used opprobriously by a Yankee spokesman when the big shots from the Bronx brushed off a polite civic reception of their ill-starred visit to Milwaukee last week — has been taken to the bosom of the burghers here and is flaunted on every side.

The parade itself was an 11-hour ordeal for the Braves themelves, but they were game. Faced with 30 convertibles and 47-degree temperatures spiced by an 8-mile-per-hour wind off Lake Michigan, the Braves took at the massed

There had been some innocent thought that the athletes, once here, would be able to get into their cars and drive anonymously away. They did, but it was some hours later, and only after scores of officers built a safety lane with beef and motorcycles from the parade cars to the stadium.

They scored their first touchdown right at the start of the game when they went 60 yards over the goal line in four plays. Bob Helfrich, left halfback, ripped off the first 20 yards; Ernie Herman, right half, added 10 yards on the next play; Helfrich took the ball 25 yards to the 5 on the third and Fullback Jerry Phillips punched over from there. Dwight Brown, the quarterback, ran over the extra point.

In the second period, Helfrich took a punt on the 50 yard line and raced all the way for the second TD. Brown ran for the extra point.

Brown intercepted a pass and dashed 40 yards for the third score.

The four TD came in the third period after Dennis Aills, right guard, recovered a fumble in midfield. Herman took the ball on the first play to the 6 yard line and Phillips went off tackle for the score.

The final score came in the last period when both schools had the second teams in the game. John Thomas, right halfback, went over from 20 yards out.

Coach Herb Russell had only praise for the Lion Cubs.

Previously, they had beaten the reserve second string, 13-10, and the West Jefferson Juniors, 6 to 0. The WHS lineup was:

Practically everybody expected the Braves' defense to crack. Instead it was the Yankee fielding that collapsed. The team as a whole made six errors, twice as many as Milwaukee did. Three of the miscues came Thursday and one of them opened the gates to the four Milwaukee runs in the third.

The culprit was Tony Kubek, the 20-year-old Milwaukee boy.

After Hazle had cracked a one-out single off Larsen in the third, Logan rapped a hard grounder to the versatile youngster at third base. Kubek, with an easy inning-ending double play in sight, threw too high to second, forcing Jerry Coleman off the bag. Coleman's throw from an awkward position was too late to get Logan at first.

Mathews followed with his two-run double. Then Aaron and Covington singled and Torre drove in another run with a grounder and Milwaukee had a 4-0 lead. Milwaukee's other score came in the eighth when Crandall boomed a drive off left-hander Tommy Byrne over Enos Slaughter's head into the left field stands. Byrne was New York's fifth pitcher.

Stengel pulled out all the stops. Besides restoring the injured Bill Skowron to first, he played Mickey Mantle the whole game in center field. Nothing helped, however. Mantle's best was a harmless single in the sixth. Bobby Shantz, Art Ditmar and Tom Sturdivant also saw action on the mound.

THIS RUN WON THE SERIES — Sent home on Eddie Mathews' double in the top of the third inning of the final World Series game in New York's Yankee Stadium, Lew Burdette scores the first run for the Milwaukee Braves. No. 44 is Hank Aaron of the Braves, and the catcher is Yogi Berra, great Yankee catcher. Final score: 5-0.

Back in 1950, Lew Burdette Thought He Was a Yankee

NEW YORK (AP) — Back in 1950, Lew Burdette thought he had made the New York Yankees.

"I gave up only one run in 1950, in the top of the third game of the World Series in New York's Yankee Stadium, the three-game World Series winner," he said.

"I was a good pitcher, but I was a good player, too," he said.

"But do you know what Casey Stengel called me?"

"'Hey, you,' I'd yell if he was looking at me. I'd even know if he remembered my name. That spring he had eyes only for Tom Morgan. Tom was his boy and he didn't even see me."

Burdette had worked his way up through the Yank chain starting in 1947 at Norfolk in the Piedmont League. But he didn't make the club. In fact, he pitched just one inning, gave up three hits and one run for a 9.00 ERA.

"Bitter? Ha. What's there to be bitter about. I'm on top of the world now. Anyway, it's all part of the game."

The Yanks recalled Burdette in 1951 and promptly dealt him to the Boston Braves, along with $50,000 for Johnny Sain. He's been a Brave since.

A rangy—but not hefty—six feet two inches, Burdette is a natural born comedian. He never is at a loss for words and usually can think of a witty answer to a question.

When newsmen found out he was going to pitch the final game with two days' rest, they asked him how it felt.

"It makes no difference," he grinned. "I'm bigger, older and dumber than I used to be."

He probably is the most controversial pitcher in the National League. Time and again he has been accused of throwing spitballs, but no one ever has proved a thing and he shrugs it off.

"Let them think I'm throwing spitballs," he said. "Then I know I've got them worrying, and when they're worrying, I've got them beaten. The only thing that both-

"The ball was awful dirty," he said with an impish grin. "But you can be sure I wasn't throwing spitballs. Come to think of it, I had a lot of fun with all that commotion on the spitter this year."

The Yanks were so baffled that Joe Collins decided that maybe catcher Del Crandall was mousing the ball when he threw it back to Burdette.

This was the guy Stengel called "Hey, you," in 1950.

Even the haughty Yanks were suspicious of Burdette's delivery and the umpires examined the ball several times but, as usual, found nothing.

World Champion Milwaukee Finds Miracle Complete

NEW YORK (P) — Milwaukee's miracle is now complete. The miracle man is Fred Haney with Lew Burdette his magic wand.

Just five years after the franchise shift from Boston, the Braves rose from a frustrated, badly disorganized seventh-place team to a world championship outfit with a bright future.

Make no mistake about it. This was a standout team that came from behind repeatedly and overcame crippling handicaps to dethrone a good New York Yankee team in seven sizzling World Series games. This was a young team too. The starting Braves' nine that shut out the Yankees 5-0 Thursday behind the remarkable seven-hit pitching of Burdette averaged 26.4 years to 31.4 for the American League champions.

The confidence gained in defeating the Yankees, especially in their own back yard, is immeasurable. The Braves always had the horses. What they lacked was experience and confidence. They have both now.

In addition, the Braves are a highly efficient organization. They have one of the strongest minor league farm systems and own some of the outstanding young players in the country. No wonder Frank Lane, general manager of the runner-up St. Louis Cardinals, remarked ruefully Thursday:

"This was the year to beat the Braves. Next year I'm afraid they'll be unstoppable."

It is not difficult to view the Braves as a championship team for years to come.

How Burdette fared in the final game, and in the entire series, for that matter, is now one of the more glorious pages in World Series history.

The 30-year-old right-hander from Nitro, W. Va., who now makes his home in Sarasota, Fla., not only became the first starter since Cleveland's Stan Coveleskie to win three games in one series, but he also became the first hurler in 52 years to turn in two shutouts. The last one? Christy Mathewson, who blanked the Philadelphia Athletics three times in 1905.

Cold figures don't tell half the story of Burdette's truly remarkable pitching performance. The tall, sinewy right-hander walked only one batter — and that was intentional. He was rarely behind the hitters as only four Yankees reached the three-ball count. Not until two out in the ninth inning did a Yankee runner reach third. With the exception of Hank Bauer's leadoff double, no extra-base hit was made off him.

Burdette wound up with 24 consecutive scoreless innings against the American League champs. All this with only two days rest. No wonder his agent, Frank Scott, disclosed today that the rubber-armed redhead, whose 1957 salary was only $15,000, stands to earn around $20,000 in personal appearances and endorsements during the coming winter.

Burdette received magnificent fielding support from his teammates, especially Eddie Mathews at third base. He received timely hitting support from Hank Aaron, Bob Hazle, Del Crandall and Mathews.

Mathews, a batting bust in the first three games, delivered the key hit — a third-inning double to right off starter and loser Don Larsen which drove in the first two Milwaukee runs.

Aaron, hit safely in every game, drove in a run Thursday and wound up leading all hitters on both teams with .393.

Hazle started the crushing four-run rally in the third with a hit, his first of the series. Crandall unlimbered the coup de grace with a home run into the left field seats.

It was the staunch Braves' defense, however, that surprised the Yankees the most. The scouting reports had led them to believe that the Braves were a slow clumsy, lack-luster outfit in the field, devoid of fire and imagination. The Braves proved they were anything but that.

Mathews played a spectacular third base from start to finish. Logan's short-fielding was not as sensational but equally effective.

Covington proved the defensive surprise of the series. Saddled with a good-hit, no-field reputation, the young left fielder left the Yankees gasping with two glittering catches and a tremendous throw that cut off at least four runs.

Crandall was the rock of Gibraltar behind the plate and his strong throwing arm mowed down all three would-be Yankee base stealers.

Frank Torre, a fancy dan around first base, saved his in-

ACTION—FAST AND FURIOUS—IN FINAL SERIES GAME—Bob Hazle of the Milwaukee Braves is safe at second on a dramatic slide in the hectic third inning of the final World Series game in New York's Yankee Stadium. Jerry Coleman, Yankees' second baseman, tumbles through the air to grab Tony Kubek's bad throw on Johnny Logan's grounder. Hazle went on to score the first, and what proved to be the decisive run of the game on Eddie Mathews' double.

Gala Welcome Handed Braves By Hometown

MILWAUKEE (P) — The Braves brought the world championship of baseball home Thursday night.

"I thought," said one hero of even five years in the home of the Braves had left unprepared to face 750,000 roaring voices, "that you had to die in battle to get this kind of a welcome."

But Valhalla was never like this.

Said homecoming chairman Ben Borkin, "I hate to think what would have happened if we'd had a chance to really plan this celebration."

This is what happened:

Milwaukee, which holds within its metropolitan area about a million souls, turned out most of them early Thursday night, and kept them out late. The downtown area — scheduled to see a parade of the world champions after their arrival — began to clog with humanity in midafternoon.

By the time the Braves' airplane touched down at 7:30 p.m. there were 250,000 people in an area roughly two blocks wide and two miles long along Wisconsin Avenue. Not a wheel turned in this area for hours.

Meanwhile, at the airport, 10,000 jammed the terminals, piers, decks and roof and another 10,000 swarmed out over the field. When the door of the chartered airliner opened and Manager Fred Haney appeared, what little in the way of formal ceremonies had been prepared were swamped along with the television crews and cameras.

Unfurled at the airport were the first of the banners which repeated the same message for miles: "Welcome back to Bushville."

This term of opprobrium — used opprobriously by a Yankee spokesman when the big shots from the Bronx brushed off a polite civic reception of their ill-starred visit to Milwaukee last week — has been taken to the bosom of the burghers here and is flaunted on every side.

Coach Herb Russell had only praise for the Lion Cubs.

Previously, they had beaten the reserve second string, 13-10, and the West Jefferson Juniors, 6 to 0. The WHS lineup was:

Ends—Gene Hanby, Steve Fleer, Jerry Powell, Butch Conaway and Doug Bray;

Tackles—Rex Knedler, Mickie Paul, Ed Highfield and Dick DeWeiler;

Not a square foot of curbstone was unmanned along the scheduled parade route, and as the caravan reached deeper into the city intersections swelled shut with the crowds. As the safari approached within a mile of the downtown area, there was barely a clear lane for the cars carrying the heroes.

At the stadium itself, thousands more had welded themselves into a committee of the whole in the Braves' parking lot. "Who takes all those pills?"

This is often the question when a customer sees the shelves in our pharmacy. Row on row of bottles, boxes, canisters, tubes, vials, jars... about 2,000 items in all. Good question. Who are they for? The answer, of course, is you. Say you go to a physician and he writes a prescription which you bring to us to be filled. We can't tell what the ailment will be—there are thousands, and we don't know what medication the doctor will prescribe. October Calls For Caution

Dark Nights, Dark Clothes Spell Hazard

Pedestrians need to be more cautious during the month of October.

That's how Police Chief D. Valentine Long called attention to the sharp increase in the number of persons wearing dark-colored clothing.

"As the days shorten," the chief said, "more pedestrians will be on the streets in the early hours of darkness. The pedestrian should do what he can to make himself visible when he is on the streets. The wearing of something white is a big help. Even carrying a newspaper increases the visibility of the walker considerably."

Walking in areas which lack street lighting, or which are without sidewalks, practically demands that the pedestrian carry a light so that he can be seen at a greater distance," Chief Long pointed out, saying: "The light will help him avoid some tumbles, too."

THE MOTORIST can do much to safeguard the pedestrian, Long pointed out. He asserted that the most important thing is the use of headlights whenever the motorist's car is on the streets after dusk. Parking lights, he said, will not reveal a pedestrian who is more than 50 feet away.

The use of headlamps when the car is moving is an extra warning that the car is approaching, he observed. It is too easy for the pedestrian to decide that the car with parking lights is stationary and often he discovers, too late that it is approaching at a brisk pace.

The careful motorist, according to the chief, "recognizes the increased hazards by reducing his night time speed 10 or more miles below the pace he would travel in the same area during the day. The careful motorist also recognizes there is absolutely no need for using the long beam of his headlamps when he is in town, the chief said.

"You have to see danger to avoid it. Use your headlights and travel at a speed that will permit you to stop in the distance that you can see ahead," Chief Long pointed out.

WACs Offered Assist by Bra Maker

CHICAGO (AP) — Walter Stein of Chicago, who likes women to look like women, has asked 96 of them to send him their bust and hip measurements.

In return, he'll send them underwear.

The 96 are members of a WAC detachment in Yokohama. Their shapely commander, Lt. Jeane Wolcott of Kent, Ohio, isn't satisfied they're looking their feminine best. Only one of 86 WACs who lined up for inspection Saturday was wearing her uniform perfectly, the lieutenant says.

Lt. Wolcott wants them to shape up, even if it means wearing falsies and girdles.

Since the government does not issue special undergarments, Stein, a Chicago undergarment manufacturer, said Thursday he'll aid the lieutenant. If the 96 ladies send him their bust and hip measurements, he said, he'll outfit every one of them.

Commented Stein, head of the Perma-Lift Co.:

"Women should look like women even if they are in the Army."

IT'S SO EASY TO PLACE A WANT AD.

Six Cities To Be Represented At BPW Meet Here Monday

Between 75 and 100 members of Business and Professional Women's clubs from six cities are expected at the Country Club here for the BPW fall district meeting Monday, Miss Mary Frances Snider, general chairman, said Friday.

Around 25 members of the Washington C. H. club are expected to attend the meeting.

The out-of-town delegations will come from Chillicothe, Greenfield, Portsmouth, Hillsboro, Leesburg and Waverly.

The principal address will be given by Julia Leist of Columbus, a member of the state BPW board.

Presidents of the seven clubs will hold a meeting at the conclusion of the conference.

The Washington C. H. club will hold its next regular monthly meeting at the Country Club

Tuesday evening following dinner.

The speaker will be Miss Olive Huston, president of the Xenia club and past president of the Ohio Federation.

Miss Huston, head of the speech and dramatics department of Xenia High School, will have as her topic, "Gentlemen Please Be Seated."

Fayette Women At GOP Meeting

Seven Fayette County women attended the all-day meeting of the Ohio Federation of Republican Woman's Organization in Columbus Thursday. Miss Mildred Smith, county chairman, attended along with Mrs. Charles Lutz, Mrs. Glenn Brock, Mrs. Marie Runyan, Mrs. Dwight Bell, Mrs. Arthur Vetter, Mrs. Charles Wagner and Mrs. C. F. Lucas.

Women from the entire state met at the governor's mansion for 2 p. m. tea. During the evening a banquet was held at the Neil House. Gov. Harold W. Handley of Indiana was the guest speaker.

Big Kitchen Being Sought By Housewife

WASHINGTON (AP) — Houses with bigger kitchens, more bathrooms and equipment easier to fix appeared today to be the goal of the American housewife.

These views were registered in discussions by many of the 100 delegates from 45 states attending the Congress on Better Living, now in its third day.

Mrs. Delores Zink of Chagrin Falls, Ohio, said she would like a home that was very modern.

In contrast, Mrs. Richard A. Taylor of Zanesville, Ohio, wife of an electrical equipment installer, said she preferred something in between contemporary and conventional design.

Others liked the idea of split-level houses, but not necessarily contemporary. Just about all of them wanted big wooded lots, up to two acres.

As for the position of the home, many liked the idea of having the sun in the kitchen window in the morning. One delegate even said she would like a house that "would face south all the way around."

Some other points of view:

Picture windows were getting a disapproving scowl, but sliding glass walls were definitely desired.

Some thought dry wall much superior to plaster, and likened the plaster to "something out of the Middle Ages." Others said dry wall isn't "childproof."

Fourteen members attended the regular meeting of Brownie Troop No. 62 held after school Thursday.

The Brownie promise was led by Mary Helen Grimm and the roll was called by Linda Tuvel. Joan Smith collected the dues.

The troop will participate in the Community Chest parade and plans were discussed for decoration of the float.

Several Girl Scout songs were sung, after which work was done on the leaf books.

Hostesses for this meeting were Patty Flanders and Anita Rhoads. The next meeting will be held Oct. 24.
